Building Better Together.

Serving the Commercial Construction Industry of Northeast Indiana

Strength in Membership

History . . .

For ninety years the Building Contractors Association has served its membership and the commercial construction industry of Northeast Indiana. The BCA provides networking and education opportunities, and tracks the pulse of industry, economic and national trends, and how they affect our local community. This strong foundation was built and is still maintained by northeast Indiana's oldest and most respected builders. The past few decades has brought many newer contractors into the fold of Association activities, and the BCA continues to grow by adapting and responding to the ever changing nature of its members' businesses and to the constant evolution of the industry it serves.

Diversity . . .

The BCA serves union and open shops alike, and collectively brings representation to governmental issues, fosters cooperation, and provides a reference source to members. BCA membership is comprised of general and specialty contractors, architects, and engineers, material suppliers, insurance providers, bonding and surety companies, accounting firms, legal firms - all of the varied businesses who work together to construct commercial structures and infrastructure in Northeast Indiana. The BCA's effectiveness in local, state, and federal issues is accelerating as it continues to expand its membership services and programs.

Locally Focused

Size & Scope . . .

BCA is the only Association that devotes 100 percent of its work and revenues to the local industry. Representing more than 250 companies, BCA communicates with a strong voice to local government and community leaders on matters of importance to its membership such as economic development, workforce development, and governmental affairs.
